

THE ARTFUL EVENT

ABOUT STEPHEN WILSON

For over three decades, Stephen Wilson has woven his artistry into the fabric of the embroidery world.

His journey began amidst the bustling streets of New York City's garment district, where he honed his craft and later traveled the country, sharing his expertise in digitizing through lectures. His remarkable talent has garnered every major award the embroidery industry has to offer, culminating in the founding of Anita Goodesign.

Two decades ago, Anita Goodesign burst onto the scene, igniting a revolution in the embroidery landscape with breathtaking designs and dynamic events that captivated enthusiasts. After dedicating 20 years to teaching others the delicate art of embroidery, Stephen chose a new path—one that led him to inscribe his embroidered creations within the walls of galleries and museums around the globe. His art has graced both solo exhibitions and collective showcases, finding its way into over 150 galleries and retail locations across the nation.

Each unique piece is crafted with care in his Charlotte, North Carolina studio, with larger works commanding prices over $10,000. Stephen's creations resonate with art collectors and celebrities alike, who covet his intricate textiles that tell a story of passion and dedication.

Above all, Stephen's heart lies in teaching, as he continues to share the rich tapestry of knowledge he's gathered over the years, inspiring new generations to explore the enchanting world of embroidery.
